NEW SPRING GOODS!

Tuesday, August 24, 1869.

The Governor has issued his proclamation ordering on the 7th day of October next, an election to supply the vacancy in the Senate, caused by the death of the late Hon. J. W. Osborne.

In view of the fact that Governor Holden has issued his proclamation, ordering an election on the 7th of October, for Senator to supply the place made vacant by the death of Judge Osborne, it becomes the people of Mecklenburg to be looking around for a suitable candidate to be his successor.

We will not disguise the fact, that the Radicals will enter the campaign with a very great advantage—that of perfect organization, against disorganization. The Radical candidate can and will command his party just as a general does his legions; so the full strength of his supporters will be polled. Not so with the Conservative standard-bearer. A number of his friends will, as in the last election, find many things to do at home; so they will stay there. What must we do? Bring out a man who has positive popularity, who has personal friends who will work for him, and will give their time to help him on. There are several just such gentlemen in the party, and if either one of them is selected, he will be elected; but if it is left to the few to make the nomination, neither of them will be the man.

This election seals the political fate of the County for a number of years. If a Conservative is elected, so will the County go next August; if the Radicals carry the day, so also will the County go next August. We know, and there is no disguising the fact, that there are many voters, who, like certain crows, will follow where the plunder is, and just as certain as fate, will they join the victorious party, without regard to principle. Let the people make the selection. It is their right, and where they speak out we feel confident of victory.

THE DECAY OF THE NEGRO.—Beaufort, S. C., once the fashionable watering place of South Carolina, has become decayed, ragged, houseless, and a mere clam bed. Once it was to the South what Long Branch and Newport are to the North. It had its handsome hotels and bathers, but now there are a few mean whites, who, in company with the negroes, a few low liquor shops and clothing stores, a few of the ex-officials of the Treasury, who hope to get a little sea-island cotton, and a few stunted palm-trees. The correspondent of the Boston Traveller, who tells us of the decay, adds the following of the fate of the colored race:

"Away on the sandhills, in the bombproofs of forts, under old forts and decaying tents, this family of colored men, during the war industrious and happy, are now passing their lives in the wilderness of the desert islands, along their shores or in the woods of the inner islands. Such lives will soon be passed. For they sell as that the sun which can be heard so distinctly is the only voice that sings the dirge of a century that almost daily are laid in the cold grave. Going down, to death, a whole race, at the rate of a thousand a day, and leaving none behind to bear their names! This, then, is freedom! Suffering for food, for clothing, for everything; having no money, no trade, no employment; nothing to hope or to live for. Free to search for labor they cannot find; free to be uneducated and unskilled, one after another, until the last fifth year comes around, when at the present rate of disease, the whole race will have gone into the gloomy hereafter."

THE GERMAN LANGUAGE.

Five years ago the study of the German language was introduced into the public schools of St. Louis, Mo. There are now five thousand children instructed in this tongue, which is taught in nineteen schools. Some time ago there was a public examination, attended by three hundred of the best scholars selected from these institutions. The instruction is given by twenty-three female and two male teachers.

STATE NEWS.

OFFICIAL CORRUPTION.—People no longer look for honesty or probity among the administrative officers of this country, and if a modern Diogenes was to start out some fair day and take his lantern through every department of affairs at Washington city he would be as badly disappointed, we opine, as on a certain memorable occasion of old. There are few men who have sat in any administrative chair, since the close of the war, whose skirts are clean and pure, the latest against whom charges of corruption have been brought being the doughty Brewster himself, the would-be future President of the United States. What these charges will amount to remains yet to be seen.—Wk. Journal.

The Sentinel says young Huntigton, son of the noted rad of that name of Richmond notoriety, in company with a young colored gent, broke into a colored woman's house in Tarboro, last week, and both were put in jail for it.

A MAGISTRATE WHO CAN'T WRITE HIS NAME.—There actually was qualified before the County Commissioners Thursday a negro magistrate who can't write his name, and was compelled to affix "his mark" to the qualification oath. His name is George Page, elected for Holly township during two recent elections. He will have a fine time making out warrants; and still he is also one of the Trustees for the township.—Journal of Commerce.

NEW COTTON—THE FIRST OF THE SEASON IN MARKET.—Two bales of the new crop of cotton were brought to the city on the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad yesterday afternoon, and consigned to Messrs. O. G. Parsley & Co. This cotton was raised by Mr. S. Gibson at Laurel Hill, Richmond county, and is the first brought to market this season.—Wk. Journal.

The President Receives a Tart Letter From His Brother-in-Law, Judge Dent.

The following is an extract from a letter written by Judge Dent, of Mississippi, in reply to one received from President Grant, in the letter referred to, gave his reasons for casting the weight of his influence in favor of the Radical party in Mississippi, and it is to that part that Judge Dent replies thus:

Is it reasonable to suppose that a people having the free choice of their representatives would elect for their rulers a class of politicians, whose aggressive and hostile conduct hitherto has rendered them peculiarly obnoxious and disagreeable? This is the charge made by the people of Mississippi against the Radicals, or "bitter-souers" as they are called. This charge is not made because they fought against the South and secession, for many of that class fought on the side of the South. It is not made because they are of Northern birth and education, for many men of Northern birth and education, and of the Northern army, are with us in antagonism to this obnoxious party. It is not because they are Republicans, for their antagonists were among the first in the South to organize on the Republican platform and to advocate the civil and political equality of all men; were sent as delegates to Chicago, and for their consistency and constancy were rewarded by you with offices of trust and honor. But this charge is made, as I have said before, because the proscriptive antecedents and aggressive policy of these politicians toward the people of Mississippi have made them the objects of peculiar abhorrence. That policy consists not only in the continual advocacy of proscriptive, but in preaching to the freedmen, in a time of profound peace, such extraordinary doctrines as exult and direct against the white men of the South and their families, a most dangerous animosity, such animosity, indeed, as, with a continuation of the same fuel, would inevitably lead to a black man's party and a war of races. Neither are such doctrines preached with an honest desire to ameliorate the condition of the freedmen or promote the ends of peace, or strengthen the Republican party in the South, but solely to alienate from the platform the honored confidence and affection of this race, in order that the banner of Republicanism might be securely controlled and subordinated to their own purposes of power and aggrandizement. And to this class of men, whom you have failed in their attempt to force upon the people of Mississippi the odious Constitution rejected at the ballot-box, you now give the hand of friendship and support, and spare from you that other class, who, accepting the invitation of the Republican party in good faith, came in mass in Virginia and Tennessee, as they will count in Mississippi and Texas, to stand upon its platform and advocate its principles.

THE DEATH OF THE NEGRO.—Beaufort, S. C., once the fashionable watering place of South Carolina, has become decayed, ragged, houseless, and a mere clam bed. Once it was to the South what Long Branch and Newport are to the North. It had its handsome hotels and bathers, but now there are a few mean whites, who, in company with the negroes, a few low liquor shops and clothing stores, a few of the ex-officials of the Treasury, who hope to get a little sea-island cotton, and a few stunted palm-trees. "Away on the sandhills, in the bombproofs of forts, under old forts and decaying tents, this family of colored men, during the war industrious and happy, are now passing their lives in the wilderness of the desert islands, along their shores or in the woods of the inner islands. Such lives will soon be passed. For they sell as that the sun which can be heard so distinctly is the only voice that sings the dirge of a century that almost daily are laid in the cold grave. Going down, to death, a whole race, at the rate of a thousand a day, and leaving none behind to bear their names! This, then, is freedom! Suffering for food, for clothing, for everything; having no money, no trade, no employment; nothing to hope or to live for. Free to search for labor they cannot find; free to be uneducated and unskilled, one after another, until the last fifth year comes around, when at the present rate of disease, the whole race will have gone into the gloomy hereafter."

Some time ago there was a public examination, attended by three hundred of the best scholars selected from these institutions. The instruction is given by twenty-three female and two male teachers.

JUDGE DENT AND THE PRESIDENT.—The New York Herald thinks it less appropriate to say that Dent of Mississippi is Grant's brother-in-law than that Grant is Dent's brother-in-law. Undoubtedly Dent is much more a man than Grant. He understands the position of parties in the South and the needs of the time far better than Grant. He has more intellect than Grant, more information, more judgment, more patriotism. His letter to Grant, though entirely courteous, is a keen rebuke. It has the sting of truth. It shows that the President's recent defection to the extreme Radical party is unwise and mischievous. It makes clear the fact that the Southern conservative Republicans are arrayed not against those who fought for the Union in the war, not against men of Northern birth, not against such rights and privileges of the negro as the general consent of the people of the States of the South has under the circumstances decided that he shall possess, but wholly against persons who insist that reconstruction shall be accomplished upon the basis of the disfranchisement and consequent enslavement of white citizens. We do not believe that the tyranny of Gen. Ames, sustained and encouraged as it is by the President, will avail to defeat Dent. The people appear to be with him, and in them is his strength.—Journal of Commerce.

A SHARP INSTRUMENT.—An English paper reports the invention of a "surgical luxury," beside which either is a keen battle. This is a knife which cuts so rapidly that the patient has no time to feel it. Referring to this subject the New York Tribune says:

"The idea was undoubtedly borrowed from the celebrated story of the man who had his head cut off with such neatness and dispatch that he did not know it until he sneezed. It was reported that the new instrument was tried upon a rabbit, which went on calmly eating its dinner in front, while it was being cut into ribbons in the rear. The inventor, Dr. Richardson, explains, however, that this was not exactly the case. He intended to try the experiment, not upon a rabbit, but upon his own person, when, unfortunately, the knife broke at the very last moment. It can be mended, and then we trust the ingenious gentleman will be able to eat his dinner in front and be cut to ribbons in the rear with all imaginable relish and satisfaction."

MY WIFE.—Observe with what love and respect the good man and worthy husband speaks of that dear creature whom God has given him for a companion through life. Note his actions, and observe his better half, and you will see that her image is reflected in him. I care not how great a man he may be; I care not how austere and strong minded he may be; so that he loves her. Her influence is felt every day, and her loving words and feminine dependence exerts a power within him which otherwise might have slumbered unknown and forgotten. In the language of Bulwer, "her image glistens in his soul, turns him on to those inspiring toils by which man masters men." Our greatest statesmen, our greatest heroes, all attribute their success in life to the potent influence of either a wife or a mother's love. Man must have something to love, something to stimulate him, and raise him from that state of thralldom in which the cares and anxieties of an every-day life usually plunge him.

What friends can take a wife's place; who but she can administer consolation which is ever free from the suspicions, the hope of interest, and other than that of a holy desire and deep anxiety to make you happy? Let all the world forsake and abandon you; let trials come upon you and calamities befall you, yet in her presence and loving affection you may always find a harbinger of love, truth and devotion. Men have a yearning for disinterested love. Once convince a man that he is beloved for himself alone, independent of his wealth, his riches and his station, or any of the many advantages of which he may be possessed—let him see, I say, that he is loved for himself, and you make him your slave for life. Such a man, blessed with a noble woman for his wife, is capable of performing things that would discourage him, and he not some one to offer him those little words of consolation which lighten the burdens of life.

A new sensation is announced in Italy. Not long since a young and beautiful woman appeared before the Roman Senate, and announced herself to be the last descendant of the Emperors of the East, living unknown with her father in a valley in Piedmont; and, producing documents, she demanded an investigation of her pretensions. The Senate complied with her request, and finally recognized her as the Princess Leonora. Paleologus, ordering her name to be thus inscribed on the "Book of Gold," at the Capitol. The Princess subsequently went to Florence, where she has now taken a bold step, and founded a Masonic Lodge for women.

A young man in Adams, Mass., amused himself lately by shooting at a mark during the funeral services of his dead mother.

OVERDRESSED WOMEN.—A New York correspondent who sees the beautiful but admires the substantial, writes as follows concerning the vice of extravagance in dress:

Overdressing demoralizes a woman. It takes from her that purity of thought and character, the high prerogative of a perfect life, which is her legitimate birthright, and she sells it for a mess of pottage. It opens the avenues of her soul to a thousand destroying influences, and leads her by silken tapers over into the valley of the shadow of death. I think of this when I see mothers helping their little ones into the thralldom; I thought of it last Sunday, as I glanced from the chapel master, in his white robes, to a baby worshiper in blue silk, on pompadour ruffles and folds, and Grecian bend—to the white hat, with its cluster of mature red roses—to the small wrists clasped in jeweled bands—to the shapely baby fingers beaded with diamonds. I looked at the soft, pale, golden hair arranged just like mamma's—to the white brow on which the lace hat so properly rested—to the clear-cut features of the mature, precious face, luminous with seven years' widowhood, and I could not reiterate the good man's assertion, "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven." It seemed to me much more in the fashion of this world "which passeth away."

The Norfolk Journal, speaking of the New York newspapers very properly remarks that we in the South pay far more respect to their opinions than they deserve. The only importance that attaches to them is due to the fact that they are the exponents for the day of an ever-shifting public opinion in the Northern section of the Union, and especially in the State and city of New York.—Alex. Cas.

OLD HUNDRED.—Granny McGath, of Decatur township, in this county, reached the advanced age of 108 years on the 4th of March last. J. G. Doddridge, who has known her over 44 years, visited her this week and found her cheerful and happy. He promises soon to give us one of the more prominent incidents of her long life.—Circleville (Ohio) Watchman.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A book by General Lee will awaken such special interest, that we are glad to call attention to it. The UNIVERSITY PUBLISHING COMPANY of No. 4 Bond Street, New York, announce that they have now in press, and will issue in a few weeks, "Memoirs of the War," by Gen. Henry Lee, thoroughly revised and corrected by Gen. R. E. Lee who has added, also, an entirely new biography of his father, prepared by him from private and personal materials never before used. It will be a large and handsome octavo volume, illustrated by new steel portraits of Gen. Henry Lee and Gen. Nathaniel Greene; beautiful steel engravings of "Marion Crossing the Pedee," and the "Surrender of Cornwallis," and five original maps and plans. Our readers need not be told that this is a work of great interest and value. It is the standard history of military operations at the South during the revolutionary war, and as such is a book which every reading man should possess; but its interest and value are both greatly increased by Gen. Robert E. Lee's thorough revision and correction, and by the valuable biography of his father which he has written and added to it.

We are sure that this announcement, alone, is sufficient to give the book a very great sale. But when we add that Gen. Lee is personally interested in its publication, such a sale is made certain.

As we learn that the book is to be sold by canvassing agents only, those who desire to engage in its sale should make early application to the publishers.

Painless Digestion.

"No man," says Sir Asley Cooper, "ought to know by his sensations that he has a stomach." In other words, when digestion is perfect there is no other pain or uneasiness in the region where it takes place. Nausea, want of appetite, flatulence, oppression after eating, shooting pains in the epigastrium, a flushing of the face at meal times, and a farred tongue in the morning, are among the direct symptoms of indigestion. Constipation, biliousness, headache, nervous irritability, physical weakness, and low spirits, are its almost invariable accompaniments. All these indications of dyspepsia, whether immediate or secondary, are usually aggravated by hot weather.

The close of summer is therefore the season when the victim of dyspepsia most urgently needs a tonic and regulating medicine. Of course, every invalid has many advisers. One friend recommends one drug, another another; but in a multitude of counsellors there is not always safety. THE STANDARD REMEDY OF THE PRESENT AGE FOR INDIGESTION, in all its stages, is HOS- TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Time, that proves all things, has established its reputation on an impregnable foundation, the spontaneous testimony of millions of intelligent witnesses. No acid oil or acid defines its stimulating principle; its tonic constituents are the finest that botanical research has yet discovered; it combines the properties of a gentle evacuant, a blood depurant, and an anti-bilious medicine, with invigorating qualities of the highest order, and is admitted both by the public and the profession to be the surest protection against all diseases that are produced or propagated by pestiferous air or unwholesome water, that has ever been used either in the United States or Tropical America.

Increases of constipation resulting from a want of muscular tone in the intestines, the effect of the BITTERS is perfectly marvellous; and without the dangerous sequences of mercury, it restores the disordered liver to a normal condition.

PAIN KILLER FOR COLIC, CHOLERA, AND BOWEL COMPLAINTS.

For Boils, Cuts, Bruises, Burns and Scalds, Old Sores, Sprains, Swelling of the Joints, Toothache, Pains in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Frosted Feet, Sore Throat, Sudden Colds, Coughs, &c.

Use it for any of these, and you will need do without it. Its success as a valuable family medicine has induced others to imitate and counterfeit the Pain Killer to a great extent.
